Cal Cunningham is an Army veteran, environmental business leader, and former NC State Senator running against a deeply unpopular Republican incumbent Thom Tillis, one of "the top four most vulnerable Republicans running for re-election in 2020," according to the non-partisan Cook Political Report.

Cal is campaigning on issues that matter in the lives of North Carolinians. He is committed to making health care accessible and affordable by building on the Affordable Care Act and lowering the cost of prescription drugs. He is committed to fighting climate change by making investments in a clean energy economy, and is fighting the corruption that has too long stood in the way of progress on these issues.

You can learn more about his race here: <https://www.calfornc.com/>

As you all understand, the road to a Democratic U.S. Senate majority in 2020 runs straight through North Carolina. Given this seat's importance, Mitch McConnell isn't going to let it go easily - and he's already targeting North Carolina with dark money interests to hold onto this seat.

With this steep competition, it's a common assumption that Cal will attract support from Democrats across the country. But all of Cal's supporters - across the country - are looking for strong support within North Carolina.

We would be deeply grateful if you would consider supporting him in this fight for North Carolina, and for our country.
